Local Public Agency: City of Indianapolis, Department of Public Works

Project Location: City of Indianapolis

Project Description: Manage the Knozone public education and outreach program

Managing the Knozone Air Quality Action Day Program requires a professional service consultant that can project manage the various components of the program and subcontract with experts in qualified fields for completion of all required elements. These components consist of website management, media buys/advertising, conducting and reporting the results of research awareness surveys and are addressed more specifically below. For interested vendors the following section is intended to provide background information and considerations for managing the Knozone Program. The selected vendor should expect to use subcontractors to satisfy the required elements. The selected vendor will provide an annual plan to the City for approval and coordinate the subcontractors to provide a cohesive execution of the approved annual plan.

Knozone Program Background

The City of Indianapolis first implemented an ozone awareness program in 1996, as a means to reduce the city's instances of exceeding the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's (U.S. EPA) National Ambient Air Quality Standards (NAAQS) for ozone. Dubbed "Knozone", the program was designed to be a public education program to inform Indianapolis residents about ozone pollution issues. At the time of its inception, most local residents were not aware that central Indiana had a problem with ground-level ozone pollution or anything about the pollutant. Since the inception of the Knozone program, fine particulate pollution was also added to the education and awareness campaign.

Through research conducted over the past 10 years we have measured Knozone recognition rates of 60 to 80%. In a recent survey just under half of those who are aware of the Knozone program said they take action on a Knozone Air Quality Action Day (KAQAD). With a media area of over one million, the potential emission reductions on a KAQAD can be significant.

In addition to the Knozone outreach to the public, through the central Indiana Clean Air Partnership (CICAP), Knozone reaches out to businesses and organizations. CICAP promotes participation through commitments to educate staff, volunteers, and customers and encourages Knozone action steps that reduce air emissions. A selected vendor will expand the reach and scope of the CICAP program by suggesting growth opportunities, increasing the number of partners, automating the partnership process, calculating emission reductions associated with commitments, and providing recognition for the partners.

Finally, the selected vendor will be able to provide qualifications associated with media relations, ability to evaluate cost and appropriateness of media packages associated with Knozone, perform negotiations for written and broadcast media contracts, plan and develop a year round education and outreach program including website, media contracts, events, budget, and year-end report.

Knozone project management

Summary: The selected vendor should expect to include subcontractors to satisfy all of the required elements. The selected vendor should also provide an annual plan for managing the Knozone program and coordinate implementation of that plan.

Required elements

- Submit accurate and complete invoices in a preapproved format.
- Express knowledge of Federal grant management through compliance with eligible expenditures and approvable monthly invoices.
- Providing and maintain monthly purchasing and vendor invoices and current budget status reports with hourly billing details.
- Provide a year-end report and presentation as directed.

Knozone research, website communication of the Air Quality Index(AQI) and CICAP

Summary: Selected vendor should possess the skills to accurately report AQI information for ozone and PM2.5. It is necessary that the City reports reliable air quality readings on an hourly basis either through data gathered from IDEM and/or EPA AirNow. Selected vendor should possess the skills to engage the CICAP membership to encourage continued and additional emission reductions.
